8. Read the article about education of Debrecen and decide if the statements are true (T) or false (F)!

“... Ever since the emergence of the Reformation, Reformed Hungarians in Debrecen have continuously participated in the service of the poverty-stricken in the city and, before long, school education had become one of our main activities with Debrecen Reformed College founded in 1538.

A printing house still active in Debrecen today also served the cause of the Reformation - the printing house of Gál Huszár, which was founded in 1561.

During the 1567 Synod of Debrecen, the influence of the Swiss Reformation prevailed in the city.

The continued relationship with the Reformed princes of Transylvania aided in the growth of both the city and the College. Meanwhile, the life of our Church and of the city of Debrecen became closely connected.

Many times we have offered shelter for those persecuted in the storms of history, such as when people from the College of Várad were sheltered in 1660.

Through its schools around the country, the College of Debrecen became the intellectual centre of Hungary. As a result of our students visiting foreign universities, the College became an important mediator of the European mentality. Students on peregrination is a tradition alive even today.

The choir of the College, active still today, represents a timeless value within the Hungarian music scene. We have always considered the training of girls important during our work of schooling and education and the Institute for the Education of Girls was founded in 1838. ... “

1.	Debrecen Reformed College was founded in 1567 by the Synod of Debrecen.
2.	The Reformed College had primary and secondary schools out of Debrecen.
3.	The princes of Transylvania donated the education of Debrecen in the 16th-17th centuries.
4.	Boys' education in Debrecen Reformed College started 300 years earlier than teaching girls in the town.
5.	Students' peregrination means, that they serve in the choir of the College.
